

There is a striking resemblance between the way nature creates patterns of color in a landscape and the way water and pigment mixes together on paper. A member of The American Watercolor Society, The Florida Watercolor Society and Founder of the International Society of Experimental Artists, Maxine Masterfield is known for her innovative techniques in water-based paint and mixed media combinations. Both of her books "In Harmony with Nature and Painting the Spirit of Nature" (published by Watson-Guption in 1984 and 1990 (respectively) deal with non-traditional materials such as cellophane and plastics to accentuate natural forms in painting.

Depicted above "Walls" and below "Reflections".
